BY HOWARD R. GARIS.

"You won't be gone long, will you, Uncle Wiggily?" asked Little Fudge, looking up at his uncle, who was sitting on the edge of the bed, looking at the clock.

"Not very long," he answered. "Only long enough to have an adventure."

Then he started off, hopping through the woods and over the fields, wondering what would happen to him, when, all at once, he heard a funny little barking sound down in the brown leaves of the forest.

"My! I wonder what that is," thought Uncle Wiggily. "I'll go and see."

He went down into the brown leaves, and there he found a little fox, looking up at him with big eyes.

"So Uncle Wiggily looked carefully at the fox, and though the barking sound kept up, he could see nothing in the grass or leaves until, all of a sudden, he caught sight of something soft and fuzzy."

"There you are," cried Uncle Wiggily, who the moment at a telephone. "Who are you, and what are you doing here?"

"I'm Little Fudge," was the answer. "I'm in the deep, dark, dismal woods."

"Confound it," laughed Uncle Wiggily. "You're a little fellow, aren't you?"

"Yes, I am," said the fox, looking up at him.

"What are you doing here?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "I'm looking for my mother."

"Your mother?" asked Uncle Wiggily. "What's her name?"

"She's called a variety show."

"Well, I can't see that," said Uncle Wiggily. "I'm looking for my mother."

LETTERS FROM FIGHTING MEN

SAYS FRANCE ABOUNDS IN PICTURESQUE SCENES

BLUE MOUNTAIN, Miss., Oct. 23 (Sp.)—The following letter, illuminated with glimpses of French life and landscape, was written to W. V. Mauney, of Blue Mountain, Miss., by his son, Capt. Sam M. Mauney, of the United States medical corps, now serving in base hospital No. 28 in France:

"Dear Father—We landed several days ago, were at a camp of debarkation for a few days and then came here, which is to be our home. We are close to Nantes, a town of 150,000."

"All I have done since I have been here is to look. Everything seems so funny to me. All the buildings are very old, are of stone structure with stone walls, but you don't see anything built of wood."

"We have received our baggage. I didn't lose anything nor was anything destroyed. The railroad service is very good here, much better than I had expected. Their coaches are very different from ours; all the passengers are on one side of the coach, which resembles little booths, though they are very neat. To pass from the coach to a station one has to get off at a station while the train is still, there being no platform from which to get on or off."

"I haven't seen anyone here that looked to me like a Frenchman. Of course, you notice the absence of men about the towns, excepted men and boys. Lots of French soldiers are in evidence, at home on furloughs, I guess. I have also seen some German prisoners, in spite of my little French."

"I have found that what little French I know is of much value to me, and I think I shall soon be able to talk a little French."

"Well, I must close, as the man is here taking up the mail."

"Well, I must close, as the man is here taking up the mail."

STARS INCLINE DON'T COMPEL HOROSCOPE FOR THE COMING DAY

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 24, 1918. (Copyright, 1918, by the McClure Newspaper Syndicate.)

Saturday, the sun and Mercury are all in benefic aspect, according to astrology. Uranus is faintly adverse.

During this day there should be most encouraging news concerning the war and general assurance of national good fortune.

It is a time when unity among leaders of public thought and action should be closer than ever before, as the stars presage some event that will draw distinguished men together in harmonious action.

For political candidates this government of the stars should be particularly stimulating presaging strong support in quarters where help means much.

The day is favorable for all who seek employment or promotion and seems to promise success, especially for those who write or are engaged in publicity.

Newspaper publishers and editors should prosper during this direction of the planets. There will be many changes among proprietors of periodicals and publishing houses.

Persons born on this day are likely to be bright, industrious and persevering. These aspects of Scorpio may be rather too individualistic, but they should be successful.
